Investigation Date	12 th June 2009
Report By	Elaine Ellis
Team Members	Elaine, Marion, Richard

Equipment

Digital cameras

Dictaphones

Camcorder

Vigil 1: 21:40 – 22:20

Marion reported that while she was taking a photo in the woods, before we started, she could see a tiny red light dancing around in between Elaine and the leaves. She didn't take the photo but turned around as she thought one of our team was using their equipment to take readings. No one was, so she wished she had taken the photo.

21:47 Marion gets the word argumentative.

21:50 Elaine can see men ploughing the fields.

21:57 Marion gets smithy and his son, don't know if smithy is the name or blacksmith, but is leaning towards blacksmith. They are having a heated argument and the father put out both his hands on his son shoulders and pushed him backwards quite violently. The son fell backwards on a broken branch which pierced his body. Marion feels that he died and the next image that she had was of a man dressed in very dark blue and black hanging from the tree.

22:00 Elaine gets the name Charles and the date 26th July 1846.

22:-2 Marion gets ewe and lamb.

22:-06 Marion gets the name Ben.

22:09 Marion gets digitalis.

22:15 Marion gets the name Jacob.

Vigil 2: 22:40 – 23:20.

22:45 Elaine can see a red light on the tree trunk, when asked at the end of the vigil if it was a team member it was not.

22:47 Marion can see a gentleman on a very fine black horse trotting along the side of the wood from left to right, he wears a dark mustard coloured coat and lighter shade of breeches. He has black top boots and a tri-corn hat edged with yellow or gold braid.

22:50 Marion could hear the sound of something moving in the under growth behind her. It sounded like footsteps as if the plants were being trodden down. Marion turns around to have a look but can't see anything. She kept thinking she was hearing running water which goes from a gentle flow to quite rapid, there is a slight breeze but then we are used to being out when the wind is blowing the trees about and this does sound like water passing over small rocks/stones.

Elaine can hear something in the undergrowth behind her.
