

INVESTIGATION REPORT – Team 1

Investigation Site	Luton, Galley Hill
Investigation Date	28 th August 2009
Report By	Bill King
Team Members	Bill, Andy F

General

The ground on the site was very damp as it had recently rained. The sky was overcast when we first met at 20:30 but was clear by the start of the vigils. There was a blustery and very cold wind coming from the west. The site was quite dark being faintly lit by the orange street lamp glow over Luton and a half-moon. There was some traffic noise coming from the A6 down in the valley to the west.

Pre-Vigil

21:10 Just before the vigil started we were setting up our video cameras with Bill's just to the east of the path. Bill returned to his chair on the path and had just reached the chair when he sensed there was something about 12 metres away along the path to the north, between two clumps of bushes which edged the path. Whatever it was emitted a hiss at him in a most unnatural way then he saw a flash of white low to the ground like a rabbit's tail. It ran along the path then into the grass on the west of the path. What was it, a rabbit that hisses?

Vigil 1: Top of the Hill – 21:11 to 21:55

21:15 Andy takes an EMF reading but no activity recorded.

Andy hears what he can only describe as a whispering sound in his left ear but is unable to make out any words.

21:19 Bill measures the temperature at +6.5 to +8°C. The temperature was difficult to measure due to the nature of the terrain (long grass), moisture and the wind.

21:26 Bill was facing southwest by west, down towards Luton, and, over the top of his glasses, he could see two planes approaching each other out of his peripheral vision. As the planes paths crossed it was almost as if something massive had blocked out everything above his glasses then it suddenly disappeared and the planes and stars came back.

21:31 Bill tries asking any presences to contact him preferably by putting an image into his mind (as he had done recently at Blackgrove Wood in Tilsworth). After making the request he emptied his mind by concentrating on his breathing.

21:35 Andy takes an EMF reading but no activity recorded.

21:37 Bill gets "the form of a sacrifice" in his mind. In addition he saw a figure tied to a large stake with its hands tied behind the stake.

21:40 Bill gets "Why, Mr. Johnson has ripped you off, altruistically", which made no sense to him.

21:45 Bill suddenly feels very cold and starts shivering.

Bill measures the temperature at +5.5 to +6°C.

21:46 The feeling of cold that Bill felt has passed.

INVESTIGATION REPORT – Team 1

Investigation Site Luton, Galley Hill

Investigation Date 28th August 2009

Séance: Top of the Hill – 22:03 to 22:10

Bill gets ‘Owner of a lonely heart’ from the song of the same name (sung by the progressive rock band Yes). This also happened during the last investigation at Blackgrove Wood, Tilsworth.

Bill heard a metallic clink coming from along the path just to the south. After the séance Billie said that she had heard what she thought was a twig snapping, coming from the path to the south, and thought Bill had heard it too as he had looked round in the same direction and at the same time.

Vigil 2: Tumulus to South of Hill – 22:23 to 23:10

For this vigil Bill sits on top of a tumulus whilst Andy sits southeast of it. For most of the vigil Bill faced to the north (towards the top of the hill). This site was chosen as it was sheltered from the wind by a large group of bushes to the west.

22:30 Whilst setting up equipment at the second location, Andy hears a voice coming from the pathway close to the nearby fence. Andy describes this sound as someone saying “who” and feels it sounds like Richard, who the team are expecting to arrive. Andy asks Bill if he has said something, but Bill states he did not.

22:35 Bill measures the temperature at +5 to +5.5°C.

22:37 As Bill was standing up he heard a dull thud and felt the ground beneath his feet (the tumulus) vibrate.

22:40 Andy takes an EMF reading but no activity recorded.

Andy hears a noise of something moving about in the bushes in front of him.

22:48 Whilst taking a long exposure photograph of the area Bill hears a man’s voice. He could not determine the words or direction as the voice was very quiet. No person was visible and, due to the time, the nature of the night and isolation of the area, it was unlikely that there was anyone around.
