At the end of the investigation Andy G asks me to take some pictures which I do, as we was looking around I ask Andy if he had looked at the gravestone in the corner, we both went over to have a look. Andy looks at the small headstone to the left of the large headstone. And the name is George, then a dog started to bark, Andy and Elaine could smell the overpowering smell of aftershave.

I would go back there with a small group like we had as it's a small place. Maybe leave it a couple years. It was a good investigation.
