

Marsh Farm Luton

27/03/2012

Hi my names Jo.

I live in marsh farm and I have been here roughly ten years. All the things going on have been happening since I moved in its on and off, things happen a lot then it will be quiet for a couple of months. I live alone with 3 dogs. When I moved in it was my son now nearly 20, a different dog and myself. Ok so about a month after I moved in, I woke up to see a black figure of a man standing next to my bed.it was a warm night, the curtains and window were open to let air in.so it wasn't pitch dark as there's a street light fairly close outside.

I reached out to flick the light on and he vanished. He was dressed in all black fairly modern clothes.my dog was asleep in front room, she was very protective and would of stopped anybody entering the flat. From that night I made her sleep in my bed, after few months after that I was talking to my son in his bunk bed with my left side towards his bedroom door and hallway,

My dog was sitting down at my left side.at the same time we heard the swishing of material and running footsteps. She turned to the hallway and started barking as I turned to the noise. I saw a pair of legs run past my sons open door and my dog ran very quickly after the legs. Obviously there was nobody there. I stepped into the hallway and she was looking at my bedroom door puzzled. Nobody could of got into my flat.

Two of my sons friends stayed a few months later, they are twins.at about 1am they woke up after being disturbed by what they thought was me walking up and down the hallway. They both caught a glimpse of a man passing by the open bedroom door.one of my friends used to stay over quite often, but after being poked in the side in bed one night, having the lights dim on her, the feeling of being watched she no longer stays.

I've been slapped on the head while laying in bed, heard my name and 'mum' being called, when I'm home alone.my dogs that I have now, the female I had passed away about 5 years ago, sometimes leap up and start barking crazily or run into the hallway growling.

I've lived here long enough to know the neighbours noises. .I've heard a sneeze in the empty kitchen,tapping,knocking,humming.things disappearing and then turning up exactly where you thought they were.

An ex partner ,who knew nothing of what had been going on, stayed on his own for about 15 minutes while I popped out with all the dogs. I got a terrified phone call saying he felt someone had been standing behind him while sitting on the sofa.he was a 16 stone bodybuilder, afraid of very little. But never came and stayed as he was to scared. Sometimes I just get a feeling of not being alone, or being spied on. Also my neighbour below and the lady opposite her, both on the ground floor, have had their flats blessed as they heard footsteps and felt uneasy.

This was long before I moved in. Recently I brought an iPad and downloaded an app' that switches itself on when it catches a noise. I put it in the far bedroom, and shut myself and dogs far away as possible. I played the recordings and there's a loud distinct knock, among other noises, right next to the iPad. Anyway I really hope you can help me! its making me quite uneasy here lately. Actually feel like I want to move. Thanks for reading this and hope to hear from you!
