LPS investigates the case of the missing sheep

This was the last time that LPS would investigate Swanbourne Railway. Gone are the disused railway lines we use to walk on. Gone is the old railway station and the Bridge has been developed so losing its old-world character. In its place are just clearings as the land is being developed by network rail and you are no longer allowed to walk around the site as we found out on the investigation.

Pre- Investigation.

While on route to the railway line LPS members came across a monument at the side of the road that was about four feet in height and clearly old with a shelf on it. On that shelf sat a black elongated human head with white eyes and strange coloured bumps around the face. The head was the size of a human skull with a fearsome face and a wide-open mouth inside which sat a small, long mirror facing outwards. We did not stop to investigate at the time as we were going to another location and decided to investigate on the way back. But we never found it despite going back the same way.

20:45 Investigation Begins

20:45 Racheal, Andy & Richard set up under the bridge.

Racheal hears there is a man there with you, people lining up.

Racheal hears her guides continue to communicate a lady here used to walk here saying energy behind you, Racheal starts to experience some temperature changes within herself, the middle of her back getting hot, she starts to heat up. She puts the K2 next to her to see if anything detected. Nothing detected.

Further communication from guides- lots of heartache on this bridge, you can't see them.

21:15 Security from Network Rail arrived to tell us that the local farmer had called security to tell them that three men (one of us was a woman in pink) were in his field harassing and chasing his sheep.

The Bridge area is a bit of a walk to the field where we could see the farmers house and his field of sheep which could be seen merrily walking around in the distance. We explained who we are and what we were doing and swapped ghost stories with the security man who was very keen to hear about our past investigations at the location (see previous reports). While he gave us permission to stay another hour, we decided to leave in our two cars and head to the nearby location of the station.

Quick recording before we leave.

Racheal still feeling drawn away from the bridge, guides communicate a woman is here.

(EVP) 01m 17 secs faint female yeah

Racheal asks what's your name?

No answer

Andy asks did the farmer ring the police.

(EVP) 2m35 male voice says Sandy

We then passed a security pickup truck that had pulled into the side of the road on the short drive to the station. As we passed the security truck began to follow us and as we parked up at the now gone station area. He pulled up behind us.

The security man told us that the local farmer had called in to say he was missing his sheep and he needed to make sure we did not have the missing sheep. One again we discussed our reasons for being in the area and assured him we did not have a flock of sheep in our car boots.

Post Investigation Analysis

It is during this moment while discussions are ongoing that a sound record which has been left recording under the bridge records the clear sound of a train horn blowing as it goes under the Bridge. There are no other vehicles in the area and the recording has since been analysed and it is verified that this is indeed the sound of a train horn blowing as they would have done when the trains were running some years ago
