

Wormley Wood

Records for this Ancient woodland date back as far as the sixth century. Spirits are said to wander the woods but nobody knows why. Remains of Danish soldiers have been found near the River Lea in the area where they are said to have fought in battle. LPS visited the site completing a 3.3km circuit in effort to discover if it is the lost souls of the Danish soldiers who have been seen wandering the woods.

A dedicated team of LPS members travelled down to Wormley Wood, which is situated a few miles South East of Hatfield.

During this investigation only one vigil was held as members wanted to complete a circuit of the wood but this didn't stop them experiencing some strange phenomena here. One member saw a figure on the path up ahead of where they group first stopped to hold a séance. Other members saw red 'hazes' and white lights. One member experienced someone walking past him at the half way point. The possibility of it being LPS members was ruled out due to positioning and the member who experienced it has made some logical possibilities but the sighting was quite detailed and it remains unexplained. Names 'Thomas' and 'Silverwood' were picked up and a strange voice that was thought to have said 'Everybody'. For the full report from Wormley Wood please visit our website at www.lutonparanormal.com

Stephanie Lawn